

RSS Subscribe: RSS feed

Carver County Corruption

Carver County Takes Lead Position of Counties in US Showing Signs of Corruption

Carver County CPS Case/Theresa Katka

Posted on April 17, 2013

42

The Carver county Child Protection case of Theresa Katka and her six children has taken quite a turn in the past few months. In previous posts we explained a troubling case involving Judge Janet Barke-Cain of Carver county removing six children from a mother who lives in Illinois. The children were placed with a woman by the name of Krystle Chastek and her live in boyfriend, Melmar Lahr who reside in Wright county, MN. Ms. Chastek and her boyfriend have been the caregiver for the Katka children since August of 2012, four Katka children currently live in the Chastek home. Krystle Chastek has twice applied for a foster care license by the state of MN, both times Krystle has been denied due to her criminal record and various other concerns about her home and lifestyle. Wright county was asked to do an investigation and assessment of Krystle Chastek by the Minnesota Department of Human Services. Wright county sent a negative report to the Minnesota Department of Human Services suggesting Krystle Chastek be refused a license. Wright county also suggested the children be immediately removed from the care of Ms. Chastek and her live in boyfriend. Carver county refuses to remove the children. During a hearing in Wright county a Carver County social worker by the name of Kayla Schaap took the stand in Wright county in support of Ms. Chastek stating, "Carver county has a different opinion than Wright county"... although she did not state what that opinion was.

Krystle Chastek criminal complaint:

Domestic Assault report on Krystle Chastek from McLeod county, MN: 200912criminalcomplaintkrystle
(<http://carvercountycorruptiondotcom.files.wordpress.com/2013/04/200912criminalcomplaintkrystle>)

The Minnesota Department of Human Services denial of foster care license for Krystle Chastek. MDHskrystlemelmerorderofdenial
(<http://carvercountycorruptiondotcom.files.wordpress.com/2013/04/mdhskrystlemelmerorderofdenial>)

Carver county has trial scheduled at the end of April for Termination of Parental Rights (TPR) of Theresa Katka. Reasons for the TPR or removal of her six children from her care are unknown. Carver county continues to claim Theresa is a drug and alcohol addict, although Theresa has cooperated and passed several drug tests ordered by Carver county since August 2012. UA testing along with fingernail and hair testing.

Theresa Katka is a resident of Illinois, not Minnesota. Judge Janet Barke-Cain of Carver county determined in a jurisdiction hearing that Carver county has jurisdiction of Theresa Katka and her six children. How this is possible with Minnesota law on jurisdiction is unknown.

Carver county is making thousands in federal and state funding for the placement and control of Theresa and her children.

Posted in: All CCC Posts \(http://carvercountycorruption.com/category/all-ccc-posts/\)
42 Responses "Carver County CPS Case / Theresa Katka" →

Jen C

April 17, 2013

Seriously???? This is crazy that Carver would leave these kids here with this lady!!! What are you thinking Carver County???? Someone needs to protect these children and where is Wright County in this??? Can't someone do something??? I know this Krystle chick and she has rotten teeth like a meth user!!!

Reply

ncpp

April 17, 2013

Witnesses in the courtrooms reported both Krystle and her boyfriend have rotted teeth. Indicative of long term meth use. There was a comment from someone on another post about it. This couple needs help, not foster children. Pictures of severe bruising on the children since August 2012 have been handed out as well. Carver county admits they've had to talk to Krystle and her boyfriend about proper discipline of the children, along with ways to properly channel their anger. This is unbelievable abuse of power and children.

Reply

Jen C

April 17, 2013

Wow, it amazes me that social workers who profess to love children can be this ignorant. Apparently Carver County must be making some big bang bucks on these kids that they allow these children to be abused, this is insanity!! How does this happen in our society?? All of these cases? This is beyond comprehension!!! Why???????

Reply

Kimberly

April 17, 2013

I read the link with the 2009 domestic assault. Is Theresa Katka formerly Theresa Morgenson? If so, then Krystal gave Theresa a black eye by kneeling her in the eye and scratches in 2009 and went to jail for it?! And, she has Theresa's kids?!

Reply

ncpp

April 17, 2013

Yes, she is formerly Theresa Moganson.

Reply

Kimberly

April 17, 2013

That's interesting. So, Krystle beat Theresa (while Theresa was holding her 8 month old), gave her a black eye and scratches and went to jail for it, but has Theresa's kids that were STOLEN from her while she was visiting MN. Wow.

Let's Get Honest

April 17, 2013

(one in moderation just disappeared; this is #2 and more generic after I looked up the first website on this same case. I think because it had so many links, it probably went right to moderation, DNK).

This same story also on a website from a nonprofit where Theresa's story is also told (that site links to a lot of carvercountycorruption exhibits.. and mention the letter from legislator Ornstein <http://stand4rights.com/theresa-katka.html>)

April 17, 2013 — it's been almost exactly one year since a Senator (Ortman) wrote a letter to the

MN Supreme Court Justice (Gildea) and Administrator (Dosal) demanding an investigation of the family court practices. (This letter would be more effective if the other signatures were in there; any way to obtain one; did the other four actually sign it?)

<http://carvercountycorruption.com/2012/04/17/letter-from-senator-ortman/>

This got good coverage, what happened since?

http://www.chaskaherald.com/news/ortman-requests-review-of-county-s-family-court-cases/article_7593afbf-d917-59f1-9e9b-ef6560d01cbf.html

And the smartass report back by Dosal, “you can either appeal, or make a complaint to the judicial board,” within one short month:

http://www.chanvillager.com/news/state-court-officials-don-t-plan-on-reviewing-family-court/article_ff96c934-ae55-5427-9e4f-1f2b4b887b29.html?mode=jqm

A few months later, Dosal gets a professional recognition of excellence. Read the commentary to see what they’re congratulating her for –helping unify and centralize court operations:

<http://www.mncourts.gov/?page=NewsItemDisplay&item=55575>

““Over three decades and seven chief justices, Sue Dosal has been a steady force in the formation of the judicial system you see today,” said Minnesota Supreme Court Chief Justice Lorie S. Gildea. “She guided the 15-year transition to ~ ~ ~full state funding for our courts, the transition to a statewide and state-of-the-art case management system, the creation of the Court of Appeals, the construction of the Minnesota Judicial Center, and  the unification of the court system under one central governing body, the Judicial Council ~ ~ ~. Sue had a major role in all of these important initiatives, and many more.”

~ ~ ~Unification under a Judicial Council — California already did this. It sucks.... It’s also enabled the AFCC to continue expanding its influence. We still have, on the street level, “roadkill” around custody matters, whether the family has wealth, or whether it’s low-income. We are blogging the finances more than the roadkill.

Here’s another article stating what a wonder Ms Dosal has been. Looking at the timeline and her previous association with the NCSC (National Conference on State Courts) — who also worked for AFCC early one), her role is very understandable. There is a blueprint — and that blueprint is expansion of courts and more centralized control of them, while then complaining about underfunding. She was on task 1982forward, and comes from Wm. Mitchell College of Law (DNK about then, but has major AFCC presence in at least one of their professors, Nancy ver Steegh, etc.).

<http://www.startribune.com/local/stpaul/37067324.html?page=2&c=y>

Here’s an October 2011 Judicial newsletter telling anyone in the state what’s up next (for 2012-2013, it’s saying). Watch out especially for expanding use of “Pro Bono Attorney Conciliation Court Referees” in Dakota County (Conciliation court — cf. AFCC, get it? Ordering more evaluations....), and Early Case Management/Early Neutral Evaluation (“ECM/ENE”) expansion.

Notice, not much detail given (see p. 6). This could become like Connecticut (or other states') case-steering "high-conflict" docket. Newsletter "The First Edition" is only Vol. 2 #4 here, so it's probably new. They're also talking about electronic filing, which raises issues about legitimacy of the resulting orders; there are many issues:

<http://www.mncourts.gov/Documents/1/Public/administration/The%20First%20Edition/Fall>

It's important to know what language the courts use in describing their own issues. Reading newsletters is one source of that.

Here's a 2011 FINANCIAL AUDIT (showing Gildea as Chair of the Judicial Council) indicating that the SECOND JUDICIAL DISTRICT doesn't have adequate financial controls.

<http://www.auditor.leg.state.mn.us/fad/pdf/fad1123.pdf>

Here's an unsigned (but you can see who was thinking about this) Petition, supported by Sue Dosal, for the Attorney General to ORDER emergency temporary funding of the judicial branch even though Legislature had not appropriated. Court Administrators (she's one) are very powerful — and I can see they're also mentioning, "by the way, as judges, we have power to force the legislature to pay us anyhow," even though by law, it can't be funded without appropriation BY the legislature. They were going for the Attorney General to make it happen.

It's FILE# 62CV-11-5361 in the Second District (Ramsey County).

<http://www.mncourts.gov/Documents/2/Public/News/ProposedDocument6.pdf>

This should tell us that they know a vulnerability exists as to financing. They were setting up for the Attorney General (Lori Swanson), supported by an affidavit of Sue Dosal to force appropriations; filing in this same county which was just audited and found not to have sufficient internal controls, etc.

Here is the same order (signed) and findings of fact and law, ordering payments. In this the Petitioner included the Chief Justice (and Attorney General) with Affidavit from this Sue Dosal. The judge hearing it was by special appointment of the petitioner (a rather "unique" setup). One of the first scare tactics used was that law enforcement might not be able to restrain — who else? Violent Offenders, Psychopaths Sexual Abusers, Domestic violence (the word wasn't used, but that's what was described) and child abusers (again, that word wasn't used, but that's what was described). It was under the section "Constitutional Considerations" — and from what I can tell, the only one mentioned was the right to allow law enforcement to restrain the bad guys.

(oh wellyours truly, etc.)

Read and Understand the Blueprints....

Reply

ncpp

April 17, 2013

“Stand4rights” gets their posts from this blog. The original post on Senator Julianne Ortman’s letter is on this blog. Nothing came of the letter. It was a publicity stunt on Ortman’s part. She never meant it to go anywhere. Ortman and Chief Justice Lorie Gildea are friends. Ortman is a lawyer.

All posts on stand4rights website regarding cases listed here- started here.

Reply

Let's Get Honest

April 17, 2013

Yeah, I can see that from the URLs, obviously. Anyhow I really do like to take the systemic view of things, and I put some of those above links to show places to look what direction things are going before they get there. I look at individual cases in different states to see if there’s a similar, and identifiable pattern.

Sue Dosal (court administrator) is absolutely following a similar pattern: Unifying courts under a Judicial Council, central control, and all that. I also see that stand4rights.com picked up on that 1979 Minnesotans (or, their legislature) allowed that Judicial Complaint Board (most states did). They are talking about HHS funding — but specifically mention the elephant in the room of funding, when it comes to custody cases — Title IVA and Title IVD. Foster care, adoptions, etc. — those are more TITLE IVE.

This woman obviously has a lot of organizational talent and IS a leader. But the blueprint isn’t exactly original. Also, if there’s personnel overlap between stand4rights and this blog, know that picking Center for Judicial Excellence as a “Resource” is probably ill-advised. They’re on an agenda. I’m from that area, and have seen the group in operation for many years, and had some dealings with how they run things. It’s no grassroots operation; and they, too, will not report honestly on the extent of “fatherhood.gov” or the money laundering aspect. There’s got to be a reason why, given they’ve been informed of it by credible sources (not just me) for years.

I exist in the form I presently do BECAUSE groups like this withheld critical information from mee while I still had custody of my children, who I’d raised and by leaving the abuser, probably saved all our lives. The courts responded by putting my kids back at risk and NEVER mentioning supervised visitation as an option.

Without a coherent explanation of the finances and funding (I see there’s some of that on this site, don’t mean to criticize too much) and people understanding, we simply don’t understand government. it’s fundamental to know about. Other stuff is subsidiary. And legislative change which doesn’t take this into account makes no sense to me. Who’s gonna enforce (see that 2011 order, above)!

tc

April 18, 2013

Regarding the signatures on Sen Ortman's letter, remember that the Dosal response questioned how many fellow legislators actually signed the letter?

It is silly that fellow legislator names are put on the letter, yet evidently no accountability for it. Was the letter solely an Ortman initiative, and she put her fellow legislators name on it without their consent, or did her fellow legislators actually support her efforts?

Reply

Dan O

April 17, 2013

I hear that this Kayla already has her new boss wrapped around her little finger. Kayla is one crazy lady that thinks these kids should be with this child abuser. I am sickened by this and they should all be ashamed.

Reply

ncpp

April 18, 2013

If that is true about Kayla having her boss wrapped around her finger, well, that 'boss' needs to take a long hard look at himself. It would be appropriate to put a great deal of blame on that boss, if this is the case. There is no excuse for this. Even though this is a juicy story, shocking in nature, hair raising and something to talk about... while everyone is talking – these kids are living a nightmare. The kids are the main concern over everything else.

Something is rotten in this county. No question. Kids and families are not safe until it gets figured out.

Reply

Let's Get Honest

April 18, 2013

I looked up Kayla Schaap and found her fund-raising for a Christian Adoption Agency,

“New Life Services” ($2,090 raised since 2008). That’s an indicator; and it’s a lead for a larger story (see next comment!) I can see why she might be antagonistic to individuals who don’t stay married; it’s inbred in the education.. This started out, however, just with the quick lookups (this part only took about 15 minutes to do):

She posted its EIN, I looked up the tax returns (see that they are gradually increasing, that it’s in Richfield MN, etc.) but my computer is too slow to want to scroll through them. However, the EIN# is 51-0153937.
There is no direct HHS grant to it (understandably).

Is this the same social worker?

<http://www.firstgiving.com/fundraiser/kayla-schaap/kaylaschaap>

She claims their only source of funds is donations. I’m not sure that makes sense.

<http://www.firstgiving.com/fundraiser/kayla-schaap/kaylaschaap>

I looked up the nonprofit’s name again and found:

<http://www.minnesotahelp.info/Public/details.aspx?qlink=s7nLitqbEEupVbAEaaoNtQ>

It says, “preferred client: male.”

It shows what sites its operating out of, that its approach is evangelical, pro-life Christian. The fact the services are free indicates the type of funding, probably:

Area Served

Richfield, Bloomington, Minneapolis, Edina, South Metro

Websites

<http://www.nlfs.org>

<http://www.nlfs.org/pregnancy/formen.cfm>

If you plug that EIN# into this website:

<http://foundationcenter.org/findfunders/990finder/>

a chart pops up showing that in at least the last three years (unlike many of us!), the assets are more than doubled. Click on any year, the group’s name, to look at its tax return. ON pages usually 7 or 8 of any return it shows officers and trustees (who’s paid what); perhaps these are names someone local might remember.

http://990s.foundationcenter.org/990_pdf_archive/510/510153937/510153937_201203_990

You’d be surprised what kind of finds. In Arizona, we found the head of the local chapter of AFCC had consulted and was on the board of a certain Faith Counseling group. That group was repeatedly being dissolved for failure to file tax returns, and claims to have drawn clients from 22 local churches. Apparently none of the clients saw fit to check whether they were being provided services by a legit, or illegit organization — people just aren’t encouraged to look things up!

A quick check here (IRS Select-Check site

http://apps.irs.gov/app/eos/mainSearch.do;jsessionid=d6kWXvTX8laVH4B2UwhiMA_?mainSearchChoice=pub78&dispatchMethod=selectSearch) shows yes, this one is legit — location, Minneapolis.

By actually looking at its “Details” (it’s been filing OK and is Active & in Good Standing) a little note says “Corporation holds AN 72773”

So I go back and look up “72773” under a “Contains” search. None active, two Inactive. The two are Giordano’s Enterprises (foreign corp, home district illinois) and (also only active from 1988-1998) an Assumed Name “New Life Family Services” — and the OWNERS of this name look more like real estate companies?

—
 Minnesota Business Name New Life Family Services Business Type
 Assumed Name MN Statute 333 File Number 72773
 Home Jurisdiction Minnesota
 Filing Date 06/02/1988
 Duration 6/2/1998 5:00:00 PM (10 years only).
 Status Inactive
 Renewal Due Date: 06/02/1998
 Registered Agent(s) (Optional) None provided
 Principal Place of Business Address
 3361 Republic Ave
 Mpls MN 55426 USA

{{Address Lookup — right around the corner from “Cooperative Church Supply,” — just a good idea to look up street addresses as part of corp. lookups):

http://www.briki.com/briki/Minnesota/MN/MINNEAPOLIS/55426/3361_REPUBLIC_A

Nameholder Nameholder Address
 New Life Home Inc 2520 Coon Rapids Blvd, Coon Rapids, MN 55433
 New Life Homes Inc 2031 W Broadway, Mpls, MN 55411
 New Life Homes Inc 435 Aldine Ave, St Paul, MN 55104
 New Life Homes Inc 814 N Broadway, Rochester, MN 55904
 New Life Homes Inc 1423 Judith Ave W, Roseville, MN 55113

Let's Get Honest

April 18, 2013

(This goes after the earlier comment, looking up this social worker).

FYI, how powerful can a social worker who just got her BSW a few years ago, and was a temporary hire over in another (Chisago) County as of 2010, really be? The power's not in any individual's character — it's in the delegated (legit or illegit) authority behind her, and the intent behind that authority. Kayla Schaap, per one of the links, got her BSW in social work from a Reformed Christian College (Dordt.Iowa) only a few years ago. It sounds like she hasn't even been in the work force, period, for many years.

Significance: In general, a reaction to things liberal, from top to bottom.

http://www.dordt.edu/about/our_mission/developing_history.shtml

Quick FAQs on the significance of the undergrad degree:

Dordt was a synod back in the Reformation, who thought Jacob Arminius was too liberal. They're still serious about this, only as applied to other groups, to this day. (on-line training: "evil men with wet fingers held high in the winds that blew" weren't (Calvinist) enough..

http://www.spindleworks.com/library/brj/brj_nov_99_dort.htm.

It's part of history and interesting enough (<http://www.imarc.cc/eseurity/arminius.html/> "The Scapegoat of Calvinism"), but basically speaking, we're on the predestination side of liberal, and serious about what's anathema, and this condemning attitude is still active today. (From what I can tell: Both: "original sin, and mankind is utterly depraved." Calvinists: on predestination: Christ died for the elect, and nobody else moreover, we can't backslide. Arminians/Remonstrants: Christ died for all, and yes you can. (Arminius and followers were more tolerant, and as a result, while inviting a debate on the matter, instead were treated like criminals, and basically got run out of town as heretics, speaking, in the early 1600s. We're talking, settling theological arguments that couldn't be won by reason, by force, what else is new)

Political setting, here: <http://christianity.about.com/od/Christians-In-History/a/Jacobus-Arminius.htm> They argued their position before the Dutch Supreme court, resulting in a "tie." The Calvinists wouldn't settle for the tie and took it up a notch, but Arminius, probably from the ongoing pressure, died before round two. His followers took it up, and the war was on. This time they weren't so stupid as to debate it in a neutral forum (this was also about church/state issue) and so stacked the decks — at this Synod of Dordt held about 9 years after the heretic himself died.

The Christian adoption industry, which is booming these days, has close ties with this philosophy, and a major organization involved in it (Bethany Christian Services), comes out of the exact same faith tradition (and has an outpost not far from Dordt). To me it makes no sense, because if there's predestination, then adopting an infant in order to turn the baby into a Christian because of the nice Christian home wouldn't work anyhow. I suspect, there's probably either confusion, or other motives.... I think it's more about, following their leaders, and the leadership is, essentially, into creating more "families" by purchase orders.

Anyhow, looks like Ms. Kayla got her BSW from “Dordt U.” and then went to UMN, where apparently got another three letters to put with the name, resulting in Kayla D. Schaap, MSW, LIGW. Here’s from:

<http://www.cehd.umn.edu/ssw/cascw/pracresources/Modules/Confidentiality/Confiden.a>

Center for Advanced Studies in Child Welfare, and something she wrote. This tells us about the social worker’s training — which is probably as important as her character. It tells about the system.

“This site made possible, in part, by a Title IV-E Training Project grant from the Minnesota Department of Human Services (GRK%29646).

Center for Advanced Studies in Child Welfare, University of Minnesota, 205 Peters Hall, 1404 Gortner Avenue, Saint Paul, MN 55108 Phone: 612-624-4231, Toll Free: 800-779-8636, Fax: 612-624-3744, E-mail:

Clicking around there, I also find them offering (besides stipends to attract people into the “getting kids adopted” trade, i.e., employment as social service workers, this PACC (Permanency and Adoption Competency Certificate or such). You can get a list of all the people recently qualified.

<http://cascw.umn.edu/pacc/>

This connects with what’s below, see “Angels in Adoption” and click on that link, which leads to <http://www.angelsinadoption.org/>. ANGELS IN ADOPTION is a trademarked term (it says). Scroll down to the bottom (fine print) and it’s showing this program comes out of CACI, giving its Washington D.C. address. It used to? work out of a certain street address in McLean, Virginia address, SAME BUILDING as an association for retired CIA workers (honorary chairman, former President George H.W. Bush, Frank Carlucci, etc.), which led me on a wild goose chase of all the Adoption Institutes of this one street address! (including Christian Alliance For Adoptions, you name it).

So, CACI does “angels in adoption, but another group nominated someone for the ‘Demons in Adoption” of the year.

So in complaining about one social worker — the force behind her is a huge adoption industry which needs to feed kids into the foster care system. Also, while I happen to also be a Christian (although as religious abuse survivor, not much for attending or offering volunteer services these days — they covered up serial and serious abuse for years; I could’ve/would’ve died if I’d not gotten out in time, along with our kids. Getting out was NOT a piece of cake or as easy as a walkaway, not with small children.) However some brands are kind of aggressive towards birth mothers (and sometimes fathers) who don’t behave, in their view, appropriately. Anyhow...

~ ~ ~

Anyone could find out more about a certain social worker, by looking things up. This is just what I ran across this afternoon. I believe that looking things up is generally speaking, a good use of time; knowledge is power...

The connection of the adoption industry to foster care to family courts, to faith-based grants is big bucks and a good story if some journalist could get interested in it. It might not make it into mainstream media, but they could help tell the story, still...

Just basic web search:

“Kayla Schaap social worker” shows (unapproved) minutes of a Chisago County (not Carver County) Board of Commissioners Official Meeting (I think, 6/15/2011). Scrolling down about halfway to where it’s about the Human Resources Committee, we can see she was approved (extension of one-year temporary hire) at the end of a long paragraph of staff decisions:

“Extension of Temporary one year appointment for one additional year: Kelly Ihrke, Social Worker, HHS, Gr. 23-5, effective 06/14/2011; Kayla Schaap, Social Worker, HHS, Gr. 24-5, effective 06/14/2011. ”

There was also approval of an “Amended contract” for this group which I see deals with custody, abuse, anger management, etc. issues also, (Community Behavioral Health stuff):

<http://www.riverwoodcenters.org/5025.html>, who do take court referrals:

{{<http://www.riverwoodcenters.org/11164/11801.html>}}

http://www.chisagocountypress.com/main.asp?

SectionID=25&SubSectionID=127&ArticleID=14617&TM=37309.71

This was found earlier and matches perfectly with the fact she has a BSW in Social Work from “Dordt College” which shows HERE:

<http://www.yatedo.com/p/Kayla+Schaap/normal/b66e673921363b7bbf7643eef737bf5c>

DORDT is ultra-conservative-Christian (Calvinist, reactionary, etc.), and I learned about them learning about the incredible focus on adoption (as part of evangelizing the nations, starting even with frozen embryos, if necessary) — in a post on Bethany Christian Services out of Grand Rapids, Michigan. It’s a real long post and annoying post, but here it is:

<http://familycourtmatters.wordpress.com/2013/04/05/on-the-road-to-emmaeus-when-life-evidence-demands-a-major-shift-in-understanding/#more-5691>

<http://www.dordt.edu/> (“finding your place in God’s world” // Committed to the Reformed Christian Perspective)

Actually, looks like the section on Dordt College is in draft still, but basically we’re talking ultra conservative There’s after that another post coming on how come one set of organizations MAKES orphans, and then gets on the board of adoption institutes, like CACI (<http://poundpuplegacy.org/node/6111>) (<http://www.ccaainstitute.org/who-we-are/our-> board-.html scroll down past the Board to the Advisory Board...) Bethany Christian Services is a “Bronze Donor” to this group, only $5,000. <http://www.ccaainstitute.org/who-we-are/ourpartners.html>. There’s funky tax return and incorporation stuff going on also, which I hope to blog soon.

Recent staff of Bethany Christian Services here include “Christy Groen,” 1995 graduate of Dordt College (first row of photos, right side). Looks like Ms. Kayla Schaap is an even MORE recent graduate of Dordt College... <http://www.bethany.org/plymouth/our-staff>

This poundpup web site nails the problem — why would DOW, Chevron, (The Caryle Group) and all these major political heavyweights be so interested in facilitating international adoptions for affluent couples? Well, for one, because their wealthy constituents, well, vote, etc. Why not make it easier for them to go buy some babies? And to buy babies, there has to be a supply chain. This review calls BCS the “Walmart” of the adoption agencies, and gave them the “Demons of Adoption Award” for 2009.

<http://poundpuplegacy.org/node/40708>

Do you guys remember the Russian ban on adoptions?
(this group is featured, including “Kristian Fasse”)

http://www.mlive.com/news/grandrapids/index.ssf/2012/12/bethany_christian_services_h “Bethany Christian Services has client families in limbo after Russian ban on U.S. adoptions (Dec 31, 2012).” Last paragraph shows the international scope:

“Faasse is hopeful the Russian government will allow the 46 families who are in the final stages of adoption to complete the process, but she doesn’t know if that will happen. She says Bethany and other agencies are working closely with two national organizations who have contacted the U.S. State Department for assistance in resolving the adoption issue – the National Council for Adoption and the Joint Council for International Children Services.” (“NCFA”).

Here’s a 2012 article complaining about Bethany in particular. It links to another one (more recent) which talks about the profits going to Adoption Agencies, after a review of a lot of their tax returns. There are about 3 paras. on “Bethany Christian Services’ and a note that they get paid to supervise kids in foster care, and about $4 out of every $5 dollars goes to management expenses, not the kids..... Again, connection to Kayla would seem to be from the same theological sentiment (which isn’t REALLY into birth mothers keeping their families if they’re not in a good Christian home, as defined by them. There was a stink about Catholics weren’t Christian enough for them to be allowed to adopt, etc.).

+++++

<http://www.firstmotherforum.com/2010/04/bethany-chistian-services-is-designed.html>

“I do not want to rail against these poor children, what I want to point out is that Bethany “Christian” Services is anything but Christian in the sense the word implies. The agency sucks big time. Let us not forget while this slimeball of an agency—perhaps the largest in the country, with outlets everywhere—is also among the leaders against giving adopted people their unamended, original birth records, no matter when, no matter how. I hope more lawsuits bankrupt this awful agency, one of the biggest supporters of the National Council for Adoption [check out the list of member agencies if you doubt, at NCFA's website], also adamantly against giving adopted people any rights. It's all about the adoptive parents and their ability to bankroll the agency, and NCFA. ”

“And do take a look at the story up on the sidebar from Atlanta, about non-profit adoption agencies: Nonprofit adoption agencies often profit someone other than children, families. Yeah, I'm feeling pissed off today at the adoption racket.—lorraine

+++++

This sickening article appears to be about a “nice” couple who believed adoption was the Christian thing to do, but after they got their Ethiopian YOUNG kids back home, had a change of heart, leading to criminal assault charges; the adoptees were treated differently than the biological, etc. <http://www.post-gazette.com/stories/local/neighborhoods-north/adoption-saga-ends-with-charges-for-franklin-park-couple-658454/> There are also all kinds of lawsuits against the agency.

Hopefully some of that was at least interesting..

Reply

Let's Get Honest

April 17, 2013

Case Number Style Filed / Location / Judicial Officer Type / Status

10-FA-11-200 In the Marriage of Theresa Marie Mogensen and Jeremy John Mogensen

04/27/2011 {{Mother is petitioner here..}}

Carver

Dissolution with Child

Closed

10-CV-12-1604 Riverside Terrace MHC vs Theresa Stolp

12/13/2012

Carver

Eviction (UD)

Closed

Krystle (5 years younger than Theresa) just got divorced (also from a “Jeremy John” — that's odd) in 2006, “without children.” Guess she wanted kids pretty bad.....

How could there be two "jeremy john" husbands in one family line, that's interesting...

Among financial issues since, I notice her new boyfriend is also mentioned as a party:

Case Number Style Filed/Location/Judicial Officer Type/Status

47-FA-06-1418 Jeremy John Chastek and Krystle Ann Chastek

10/11/2006

Meeker

Dissolution without Child

Closed

86-CO-07-866 STATE BANK OF COKATO vs Krystle Chastek

10/22/2007

Wright

Conciliation

Closed

86-CV-08-1125 STATE BANK OF COKATO vs Krystle Chastek

02/06/2008

Wright

Transcript Judgment

Closed

86-CV-08-6602 CREDIT ACCEPTANCE CORPORATION vs Krystle Chastek, Melmer Lahr

07/29/2008

Wright

Default Judgment

Closed

86-CV-08-8151 Capital One Bank USA NA vs Krystle Chastek

09/22/2008

Wright

Default Judgment

Closed

86-CV-09-6436 Midland Funding LLC as successor in interest to Citibank vs Krystle Chastek

09/17/2009

Wright

Default Judgment

Closed

The dockets (or public access records of them) tell a story. I learned that years ago fact-checking a story in Wisconsin. In that one, the facts checked out. Again, a docket is worth several paragraphs of information

Reply

tc

April 18, 2013

Yes, a year ago since Sen. Ortman sent the letter to Ms. Dosal/ Chief Justice Gildea.

I saw no follow up so can only conclude that Sen. Ortman's letter was for show.

But let's not forget that a number of her fellow legislators, Dem. as well as Rep., co-signed the letter, and not one follow up that I see.

So, perhaps an unintended consequence, but it could be argued that Sen. Orman's letter and lack up follow-up and determination to get real answers made the situation worse.

Now the judiciary knows the legislators could care less.

What are our legislators in St. Paul doing?

They want to focus on polarizing issues – guns, gays, etc. – instead of addressing their constitutional charge to oversee the judiciary.

What was the last time the legislators disciplined or impeached a judges, or disciplined any one else, like Ms. Dosal, in the judicial branch?

Reply

ncpp

April 18, 2013

The last time a judge was impeached in MN was 130 years ago. That's what you call 'job security'. Easy to see how and why these judges go wild. Why not? There is no accountability whatsoever.

Reply

..

April 18, 2013

I really hate how we were "played" by Sen. Ortman. Well, at least we have a chance to vote her out next time.

Reply

Kimberly

April 18, 2013

I met with several state reps and senators and the bottom line is that they aren't the ones with the power to do anything. I know some have tried. They did for me too, but it is always stopped at the highest levels of government.

I was warned in 2009 (before we fled the U.S.) that is how it is, and will go, if we are a part of this Program. I really did not want to believe it, but that is what happened and its only gotten worse across the country since.

..

April 18, 2013

So who are the people in the government with the power to stop all of this?

Reply

Kimberly

April 18, 2013

If the federal government wanted to step in and stop this they could have a LONG time ago. We need to look at the facts of who is in charge and why this is going on at all.

Reply

Let's Get Honest

April 18, 2013

That's a good question, however the issue is not who IN government can stop all the bad people — but who IS government, and who else can balance its outrageous power grabs.

How a question is phrased can lead to — or lead away from — answers. Really, the thing is asking the right question; then this produces logical answers, and the only question is, can they be acted on, yes or no.

Why would someone IN government stop all of that? When I saw police officers let my kids' father violate a sole custody to mother order that wasn't 24-hours-old reaffirmed (as it had been in court twice or three times before in other years; they were my kids, I was raising them AND working....) on the accusation I was an abduction risk (having just signed a 12-month lease and having lived in this same area for the past two decades, and NEVER threatened to abduct the kids — my ex had!) and take them out of their present schools claiming they weren't in school (while they'd been delivered with backpacks) and then drive off into the sunset to an UNregistered (with me or the courts) address

I had to re-evaluate who was government and what was law enforcement. At this time, I already knew about California Protective Parents Association, domestic violence up one side and down the other, Lundy Bancroft, Battered Mothers Custody Conference, and a whole lot of irrelevant to that action more.

I know understand “government” as a specialized form of corporation. What corporations do is raise money, minimize expenses, and try to increase assets and profit margins; this is done by selling things and finding new market niches. They also buy and sell each other (mergers and acquisitions). Governments do this also, only with less regulation because they also have enforcement powers.

As the Justice for Parents Site says:

“Excessive funding. Social service agencies have access to thousands of dollars in funds for each child they bring into their system. This includes federal grants for placing children in foster care (and the grant increases if the child is labeled ‘special needs’), Access to Visitation funding, and so forth.

My Response: Not mentioned: “<http://fatherhood.gov>” which is a source of money-laundering. Why talk about Title IV-E and barely a reference to Title IV-D or IV-A matters? They are all linked.

Access and Visitation was a last-minute add-on to welfare reform. It was added on to sponsor certain industries — which I study over at <http://familycourtmatters.wordpress.com>. It was started, and conceivably, it could be stopped, either through public demand, or an organized boycott of the services it’s providing. }}

“This can cause agencies to push for funding by getting more children through their system, as if they were cattle being herded through the chutes! Entire industries, and millions of dollars per year flow through this system. In many custody cases, whether in family court or in child protection cases, each participant is often made to receive a psychological evaluation (which are generally about $5,000-$10,000 per person), therapy is often ordered (which generally runs from $150-300 per session), legal fees can easily add up to six-figures, and all the time and resources the parents are spending do nothing to help the children involved. This is a waste of resources, and many times, the taxpayer is made to pick up the tab!

My Response: **

~ | ~Funding isn’t the problem, unrestrained greed is the problem. The platform which this funding flows is the accumulated wealth of the federal government, which is as we know obtained in part through taxes (some people pay income taxes, others don’t, and government of course doesn’t tax itself).

and

~ | ~The taxpayer picking up the tab is intentional; it’s the business plan!! Don’t just trust me, others far closer to the top of government (for example, HUD) have stated the same thing, and

and the large banks that were not bust who enjoyed the ride...

This terminology and investment banking, real estate, mortgages, securities and all that is not my native language. I didn't think about it much not having anything to invest most of my life. However, when my government stole my kids overnight without cause, and didn't feel obligated to give even a half-@ssed explanation, or bother to accuse of some cause of action, I made it my business to learn some new vocabulary and understand how it happened — which led to researching TAGGS.hhs.gov. That began to open my eyes, but reached a point of no return — when I saw the database was corrupt, not to mention many of the corporations being funded, and that I'm only one human being.

Where this woman's writing on HUD (which she obviously knows about) and others' writings on HHS and Child Support millions that went mysteriously "MIA" intersected was when a journalist started writing up the work of Marv Bryer on the Los Angeles County Judges Slush Fund (1990s) and related to that is the Richard Fine case. Richard Fine was a London School of Economics and I believe it was Univ. of Chicago trained anti-trust attorney, and an ethical man.

He took on the system of bribes to judges in Los Angeles County, challenging them unconstitutionally. For his efforts, he was rapidly disbarred, then showing up at a courtroom, led away in handcuffs AND dumped into coercive SOLITARY confinement for 18 months in one of the worst places around, AND his arrest record was falsified. That was in 2009. The attempt to break his spirit failed, and he was released on Yom Kippur in September 2010. TO THIS DAY — almost none of the advocacy groups will even talk about it.

He was jailed because he was identifying a built-in system of fraud and mis-appropriation of public money; the amounts were huge. One of the issues that helped land him in jail was reporting on the District Attorney of Los Angeles sitting on over $14 million of wage-garnished child support payments that, mysteriously, couldn't find the kids they were destined to support (Silva v. Garcetti).

To continue not talking about the money-laundering and fraud aspects, while asking the government to corrupt itself has to be a form of insanity. It has to be an issue for the mirror, not for the authorities that be.... (in my opinion).

MERCOLA ARTICLE (from stand4rights.com) says:

Look at the following website to see exactly HOW funding can cause this problem!

<http://articles.mercola.com/sites/articles/archive/2011/02/05/legal-child-abduction.aspx>

The mercola article referenced above is part of the information — I always look at WHO is saying what, when it's this significant. It's from the National Commission on Children: Beyond Rhetoric, etc. (1991). The chairman of this commission was John D. Rockefeller!!

Staying awake should probably include a little look at who is Rockefeller (can you spell "Standard Oil,") and when this source is complaining about "big government intervention in private matters, like families," it should be taken with a serious grain of salt: What's the intended outcome?

Click on website link under gravatar — it links (this time) to two pages on those "Ruthless Giants, Magnificent Philanthropists") who are running this place and full of love and concern and wisdom (i.e., "Philanthropy") for humanity, after forming making their wealth from cruel, inhumane, and immoral cartels in Steel (Carnegie), Diamonds (Cecil Rhodes, British imperialist, cf. South Africa), and Oil (Rockefeller).

Part of this includes heavily promoting the fields of psychiatry and forced psychological evaluations for ongoing social control — and billing us to build these systems of control and enslavement, basically.

These systems of control are well-strategized, well-funded, and well-endowed. They have interlocking elements. It makes no sense to me to only work on (or talk about) one or two — and fail to FIRST make sure we can name those elements and explain to others how they interlock AND how they came to pass.

Sorry I tend to be so argumentative. Guess it's just the voice of conviction...

Reply

Jen C

April 18, 2013

If these judges were not allowed to seal up files and were forced to hand over court transcripts, they would be in a world of hurt. I can bet some of the transcripts have been changed is why Cain won't hand them over. Cain is worried about protecting herself, not these kids and that is very obvious in this case as she leaves them to suffer in an unlicensed foster home with people that are abusing them. Krystle and Melmar should be ashamed of themselves as well as the judge and all the Carver County people involved in this case.

Reply

concerned

April 18, 2013

The worse part is that Carver County employees, Kayla Schaap, Dan Koziolk and Brendan Shane all want to give Krystle and Mel full custody of these same children that they abuse. Some of the things reported by the older two boys to these people would make your skin crawl. How sick is that, sadistic & % ^*)($#$.....the same people who are supposed to have the children's best interest at heart? I know better, I have seen these sick and twisted people at work!

Reply

Carl

November 10, 2013

Really???? where do you work??

Reply

sickened

April 18, 2013

i would bet if cain were investigated under cover, it would show that she is diverting the money she is generating through her instigation of high conflict to her own benefit—and in many ways, not just through the foster care system. a review of cain's files shows that she has no regard for the law; she routinely exploits her position and misuses the power of the "court order" to harm children and protective parents. maybe she likes to empower abusers because she knows they constantly will return to court, giving her job security. a review of her CV suggests she needs the job security of a judicial position because she likely couldn't make it as a lawyer. hopefully she is up for re-election soon, so she can get voted into the jobless line, so she cannot continue to harm the families she is harming and cannot create more victims in the future—if noone will step up and impeach her before that. a suggestion to any legislature, media person, or other authority who is motivated to investigate—post on this board, and provide your contact info so people can contact you and help direct you to the facts. it is likely that cain has messed with the files and court transcripts, and also her orders—misrepresenting facts or leaving out important facts to make her orders appear appropriate. but people with knowledge and experience can help uncover the actual facts, which had they appeared in the order would make it evident the orders are issued in violation of law, and without basis in the real facts.

Reply

let's get honest

April 18, 2013

I believe I explained previously that as to Dakota County, (direct HHS grants to the county), there's $25 million going to a fake corporation (i.e., probably being laundered) as opposed to $1.6 million going to Dakota County Human Services. I have no idea who "Sheriffs Youth Programs of Minnesota" is. Remember this?

DAKOTA COUNTY HUMAN SERVICES 10 3 $ 1,600,000

INTERNATIONAL SPECIES INFORMATION SYSTEM 9 3 $ 2,443,156

INTERNATIONAL SPECIES INVENTORY SYSTEM (ISIS) 81 27 $ 25,329,461

Sheriffs Youth Programs of Minnesota 3 2 $ 318,886

Report Total:

CHASKA COUNTY:

I just spent about 15 minutes looking up Chaska County. All three grantees (there were only three) related to drugs: One, to Drug-free communities, Two to developing a "Glucose-sensitive implantable device" (i.e., how to get drugs inside people), however the grantee name is misspelled, and the similarly spelled one while it DID exist under three different company names, is now inactive. The grants there were "only" about $1 million over a few years. I looked up the street address and found a different company, same M.D. (who seems legit) operating a company called Receptors, LLC.

What HHS does, and can easily do (as no one is really paying attention) is simply take a real organization, imitate its name, and create a data entry on the Grants database, and keep showing book entries for the grants. I think that 81 grants and $25 million is a lot for ONE county. That money if it does legitimately come from the US Treasury, doesn't disappear — it goes into someone's pocket. THAT's where the legal and judicial corruption most likely comes from, not bad judges, nasty social workers, etc.

The third company, GENESEGUES, Inc. (for CHASKA county) does exist — and seems more legitimate, however it's still inactive (merged in 2006).

The explosion of the mental health industry, the family and other (like Unified Family) courts as gatekeepers to order services, and the pharmaceutical companies being among the largest on the planet — is the How and Why. The pharmaceutical and psychiatric industries came out of one primary thing called war.

This is not kindergarten, and complaining about individual civil servants as if the problem was them — really isn't going to help little kids. It really is about finances, it really is about some ugly things like population control, and at some point until the money laundering is addressed, not much else makes sense to me.

The other day I was hearing about some evangelical networks (i.e., international in scope, based here and there) which were scammed to the tune of about $160 million because one referred another, and they all believed their friends. The Feds (and the SEC) finally caught up with them — do you know why?

Mostly because ONE man, a son-in-law of a famous evangelical woman — took the time to check facts. The guy was pulling this stuff off in one state, but he originated in Texas. The man looked up how Texas was after him already for fraud. The Ponzi guy says, we have all this retail stuff for sale (in this country, that country). The man says, OK, that's fine — SHOW ME! He took another person along and looked at the supposed warehouses.

They got the entire family; the man who spearheaded the scheme got 40 years, and at least SOME of the people are getting SOME of their money back. I don't know if they got any smarter, but let's hope so.

I know women who have fled the country with and/or without their children to protect them, or in at least one case, someone who exposed a judge.

What's to be done when it's not a private person pulling off a Ponzi scheme, but the government itself? I don't know — but I know it takes at least one or two people to get the ball rolling. As far as I'm concerned, I'm going to continue being one of those people while I'm still alive. I'm willing to teach anyone who has the curiosity (and the stomach) how to look up corporate records, and if people are so intent on NOT looking outside their own locality (which is obviously the worst one in the United States, no matter who's speaking), it's possible to get it local to MY COUNTY. However, I can't do that forever, I can't do it for free, and it's absolutely self-destructive not to even be curious about these matters. In my opinion.

Things have started to change in my area with consistent blogging and reporting. I didn't do it directly, but the blogging sent a message to the powers that be, we know where to look. Then they started doing it to each other (the Judicial Council vs. the Administrative Office of the Courts), it made headlines, heads rolled, people stepped down in disgrace, whistleblowers blew their whistles and filed follow-up suits.

But unless individuals will take out a little time (it's not a HUGE amount of time) to develop some basic skillsets, it's just complaining, and expecting someone else to clean up the neighborhood.

I thought about doing that with my own house — instead of cleaning it up, I would protest that it's not being cleaned up, but guess what? It never works. ... Until we start seeing this as our country and taking some responsibility for its operations, it's not going to get cleaned up either.

Long and tortuous post gets down to the business: The Franklin Coverup (Omaha, Nebraska, 1980s) as awful as it was, wasn't about child abuse — it was about money laundering.

<http://economicbrain.wordpress.com/1980s-1990s-2000s-in-usa/>

Last part says

“Perhaps a situation in which we collectively keep better track of money would lead to situations in which we keep better track of foster children. I still wonder where all this cruelty comes from to start with, that foster care is such a huge industry in the country. . . . what does that say about the country as a whole — someone else is our brother's kids' keeper?”

I have a post in moderation from this morning that didn't get saved (believe it's the first one), it was talking about HUD. If someone doesn't mind getting it back to me, I'd appreciate that (not necessary to post if you feel inappropriate).

Reply

Kimberly

April 19, 2013

Let's Get Honest, you are extremely clear, concise, and right in this post. If anyone looks into history you will find fake corporations and foundations facilitating the "powers that be." It really isn't about the individual pictures of our cases. It is nationwide and much, much larger than us. Believe me, I didn't want it to be true either....that the government is running drugs, abuse and illegal activity and my children and I are a part of it?! The bottom line is that anyone who actually read our case (with all of it intact) would have no doubt that this is government facilitated child abuse and HUGE fraud and crime internationally. Period. Hitler had to be sold out to stop too. That's where it's at.

Reply

let's get honest

April 19, 2013

I just lost half a (long) comment during the browser's refresh, while saving the bottom half. (grr....) Going about some other business. Maybe we can talk later. The problem is, once it's written it's usually immediately off my mind, I don't dwell on it, so that bit's probably just gone. However I was reflecting on how in order to take over any population, first of all you have to alter their social structure and/or somehow cause them to become in debt. It seems like in takeovers in Africa (and FYI, over here), one of the earliest steps was the invading group (whether Great Britain, Germany, or the Dutch, or earlier Portuguese, etc. in the case of Africa anyhow) is first forming a corporation (or "charter.").

Missionaries then and missionaries now functioned as military outposts to help change the social structure, leading to poverty and disease, while stripping out the assets for trade. The point comes up (also applies in the US) that you can win a war — but then someone always has to be paid off because war requires an infusion of money.

I think a lot of us understand that the USA has become a corporation actually, and that its ownership isn't local, and that part of the Social Security Act (i.e., all the "welfare stuff") is actually really about getting ID tracking of individuals to expropriate the fruits of their labor. We are kept somewhat complacent with promises of services in exchange for not rioting, and not having ALL of our kids grabbed by the state; they are just harvesting some at will into the foster care system.

Sometimes it's easier to see when the same thing has been done (by the same people, or their descendants, basically) in another continent; that's why I was writing about what was done with diamonds (Rhodes empire) in South Africa. Its effects carry all the way up into this century from the late 1880s.... It shows a "How To" of takeover.

Perhaps seeing the "How it was done" could be a blueprint (with cautions) about how to resist here. In other words, to see what the systems of control were, to see them now, and to see what forms of resistance did, and did not work.

I do have to say, it does start with forcing debt on the people to be conquered. FORCE means FORCE. Most people don't like being forced into debt, and will often resist, however that's where TECHNOLOGY comes to control the fiercest resisters. But one of the initial mistakes any of them made originally seems to be have been to compromise — at all, with the new people (invaders).

Another reason such studies are helpful I think (and why I continue just reading, a lot!) is that it reveals how to understand proposals or agreements in the context. To understand character of the situation. Things are really far gone in this country, because the wealth has been allowed to accumulate for so long, plus the takeover of the public education system to make sure most of us don't know most things about how government works, let alone how the economy works other than by functioning in one or more PARTS of it.

Lori Musolf

April 19, 2013

We can only pray that Brendan Shane, Dan Koziolk and Kayla Schaap can someday find some little bit of caring in their hearts to start saving these children. They KNOW about the abuse these children are suffering, they received a letter to immediately remove these children and got up and lied in court about the reasons behind this foster care denial!! This is so unreal to me that people can be so cruel to children especially when they are social workers.....Brendan, Dan and Kayla's pics should be put on a very large billboard with a heading of QUIT ALLOWING CHILD ABUSE!!! I am just sick that these three are determined to destroy this family!! Complaints have been filed against their licenses so let's hope the state shuts them down!!

Reply

Abel, who is sickened by Cain

April 21, 2013

Janet L Barke-Cain: watch this video. You need to educate yourself on domestic abuse so you do not continue to misuse the family court and your position (inadvertantly or intentionally) to perpetuate abuse on the victims and their children. Many many children are at risk of serious harm because of your actions, which I hope are simply ignorant (and can be changed if you are open and truly want to help) as opposed to malicious and are intentionally abusing your position to harm.

In the end, it doesn't matter. Many kids are at risk because of you—hopefully you will watch this video and begin the process of reforming and educating yourself before those kids either become so depressed they hurt themselves thinking its the only way to escape your grasp or because they lose their mothers because the mothers become so depressed they think it's the only way out from your grip. Hopefully at heart you do want to help but are simply ignorant and misguided, and not the evil malicious person that these stories suggest. And these are not your only cases in which you are assisting abusers to continue to harm their victims. One value of this website is it connects many people who are speaking behind the scenes because they have seen how you have repeatedly misused your office to issue 'court orders' to accomplish any goal—legal or not (often not either in view of the law or the actual facts, which you dismiss and hide from the record to make your orders look appropriate)—because you know the only recourse is an expensive appeal which your victims cannot afford or will impoverish them sonthey cannot support themselves or their kids. In other words, it appears clear you are well aware that you can misuse the power of your office to issue Orders even if illegal that must be carried out—because if they are not you can then misuse your office to hold people in contempt and punish them with jail amd financially by taking their money, leaving them without resources. And doing so completes your work—without resources they can't appeal your illegal orders, so they stand.

Hopefully this video will inspire you to stop allowing abusers—physical and emotional—to continue to use you as their tool to perpetuate harm on their victims. Are you afraid the abusers will turn on you so you help them? Then resign. Otherwise, put an end to their and your abuse. You and only you have the power to stop them. And you and only you are to blame for the continuation of conflict, and harm it is and will cause to the children and their mothers.

Reply

Abel, who is sickened by Cain

April 21, 2013

Judge Cain: what's in a name? Yours seems to beg that question...

—

The Story of Cain and Abel

Sometimes when we read the Bible, we wonder why God cared about some of the things He cared about. The story of Cain and Abel is one of those stories for some people.

A long time ago, just after Adam and Eve had to leave the garden of Eden, they were very sad about disobeying God. They asked God how they could show Him how sorry they were. God told them that they could show Him how they felt by sacrificing a lamb, which they did.

After awhile, Adam and Eve had two sons. Their first son was called Cain and their second was called Abel.

Cain was a farmer. He grew vegetables and grains. Abel was a shepherd who looked the family's herds. Cain and Abel were like most siblings — they didn't always get along. But they were brothers and loved each other very much, despite their occasional fights.

Adam and Eve (their mom and dad) told Cain and Abel about the message God gave them that they should sacrifice a lamb to God to show how much they appreciated all He'd done and how sorry they were for their sins.

Abel was very concerned that his sacrifice be special to God. He chose his first and best lamb and offered it to the Lord. It was hard for Abel to give up his most prized possession, but it was important to him to try his best to do as God had asked.

Cain thought his little brother was a bit silly for giving up his best lamb. "Good grief," he thought. "We need that lamb, God doesn't. I'm sure He'd be just as happy if we sacrificed the runt of the litter. In fact, why does it need to be a lamb at all? I'm a farmer and it's been a great year for my wheat crop — I can't use everything I've grown. Why don't I just burn some of the extra straw I have. That way, I won't be wasting any."

Cain's reasoning sounds pretty good when you first hear it, doesn't it?

Cain watched as the lamb burnt up completely on the altar, while his left over straw just smoldered a bit and never really caught fire at all.

That could mean only one thing! God preferred Abel.

Cain was jealous! He didn't take the time or the responsibility to realize that it was his decision to sacrifice straw that caused the difference in God's response to their sacrifices. Instead, he just got angry at his brother.

Cain asked Abel to go for a walk with him, and while he was still angry, Cain struck Abel to the ground and killed him.

When Cain realized what he'd done, he was more concerned that someone might have seen what he'd done than he was sorry for his brother's death. He looked around and sighed a breath of relief that no one was nearby.

And then the Lord spoke, "Cain, where is your brother."

Cain shrugged, "I dunno! Am I my brother's keeper?"

God replied, "Cain, how could you be so cruel to your only brother. He has done nothing, but try his best for Me, for his parents... and for you."

Cain fell to the ground sobbing. Finally, he felt the horror of what he'd done. And he had to live with that feeling and the knowledge that he'd murdered his little brother for the rest of his life.

Reply

Lori Musolf

April 24, 2013

At a Safety Network meeting on Monday evening 4/22/2013 the Carver County social workers Brendan Shane, Dan Koziolk and Kayla Schapp had this mother read a "words and pictures" story to her children. This story consisted of some truths and some lies, I was disgusted by this story with the things that Carver County included. This story told the children in Carver Counties version of why things happened, it went on to tell the kids how things would be when they CAME HOME!! These sick and twisted people mentally abused these children as they have NO INTENTION on sending these kids home permanently!! How the hell do you tell these kids they are going home and then within days try to make sure that never happens??? This story is so damn crazy it makes me sick!! How do people like Brendan, Dan and Kayla sleep at night??? If ANYONE out there has these people on your case, please know that they can NEVER be trusted!! Brendan stated to me after the last court hearing that in his opinion, there was never enough reason to remove these children in the first place yet he is helping to do just that??? These children will know that these three people were the ones that destroyed their family!!! Children do grow up you Brendan.....they will know what parts each of you have....the papers and recordings we have don't lie!!!!

CONTACT ME THRU THE ADMIN IF YOUR CASE INVOLVES ANY OF THE PEOPLE ON THIS CASE!! THE ADMIN WILL GET IN TOUCH WITH ME!!

Reply

ncpp

April 25, 2013

Brendan Shane took over for Tracee Bosch. Interesting. Where do they find these people to act out such horror on kids? They must pluck them out of mental institutions. Normal people don't do things like this. Carver county needs to make quota to get the highest dollar in state and federal funding. Six Katka kids raking in cash will not be given up by this county, regardless of the nightmare they're inflicting arbitrarily on these kids.

Insidious, completely void of all reverence for human souls. Will never understand how they do it and still manage to look themselves in the mirror. Carver County Dan Koziolk has marital problems, he claims his home life issues is why he has random outbursts on citizens. We saw his last outburst, it was similar to what you'd see a teenager email to someone they're angry with. Highly unprofessional.

It's not the whole county, only a small handful in there, but enough to keep the good guys from interfering.

Carver county Human services and child protection send emails and letters to the county commissioners telling them to stay out of these very issues continually raised by concerned citizens. The cover up is immense.

Good thing about that is the cover up only works for so long.

Reply

Abel, who is sickened by Cain

April 28, 2013

IMO, we need to stop apologizing for telling the truth, for example by saying: 'it's not everyone, just a small handful.'. it IS everyone. If they stand aside or stand down and don't do anything then they are participating. They are FACILITATORS, and they are also part of the corruption. it's not that hard to stand up in this situation, and even if it were, that is their obligation—not just as humans, but as state workers, and as members of the JUSTICE system.

ncpp

April 29, 2013

Good point.

Theresa's TPR (termination of parental rights) trial started today. They have no good reason the kids were removed from her care. They certainly have no reason to terminate her rights. We know they will. Judge Cain at the head of it, she will grant the TPR. Unbelievable. Such a tragedy for the kids.

Lori Musolf

April 28, 2013

Brendan Shane, Kayla Schaap and Dan Koziolk are some pretty sick individuals. The Katka children were placed with the aunt Krystle Chastek on Aug 14, 2012, the two older boys that spoke out about the abuse from Krystle and Mel were removed in Dec 2012. Wright County currently has an open child abuse investigation on Krystle, she was denied her foster care license in a letter dated 20 days ago, the appeal has to be done within 20 days of her receiving the denial, still no appeal and Brendan, Kayla and Dan STILL want to keep the 4 youngest children with Krystle permanently!! Are you serious??? You found no abuse on the mother yet you let her sister abuse the kids?? What is wrong with you idiots???

Reply

Kimberly

April 28, 2013

They only want to be “right.” It doesn’t matter if it doesn’t make sense, isn’t legal or in the children’s best interest. Idiots isn’t a strong enough word for the crazies running this stuff.

Reply

Lori Musolf

April 29, 2013

it’s my understanding that these sick bastards in Carver County want to permanently place these 4 youngest children with Krystle and want to help her adopt them! Seriously??? You want to give these kids permanently to someone who is abusing them?? Is this because you couldn’t find any abuse on the mom and you get off on that??? UNREAL!! Dan, Brendan and Kayla, you make me want to puke....Someone needs to stop this crap!!!

Reply

Jen C

May 1, 2013

Well Carver County, have you hit the million $ mark on the Katka case yet? I heard yesterday that you just may have.

Reply

Lori Musolf

May 8, 2013

Kayla Schapp, Dan Koziolk and Brendan Shane, you did it.....you sold your souls to the devil.....Why does that not surprise me out of Carver County employees???

Reply

Lori Musolf

May 9, 2013

It’s all about honesty Carver County....something you obviously lack or this case would have been closed a loooong time ago and this family wouldn’t be suffering in your hands!

Reply

Blog at WordPress.com.
The Inuit Types Theme.